

"You", when said to her — a warmth, completion.
For she's close and I'm sure, very sure. The heat of touch doesn't burn but gently helps to build. — And it is easy to see the progress. — as the hands of a big clock, if you watch closely. In fact it is so easy to see the hands move that you have to watch them — and because of the sort-of inevitable quality of the thing, one occasionally fights, asserts individuality per se — as against a large mysterious, invisible, father-clock. TIME RUNS WITH EMOTIONS BUT YOU CAN'T TIME EMOTIONS.
One minute you are watching the clock but soon the ticks of the clock become symphonies.